FOREWORD

IN THIS ALL-TIME RECORD OF BOXING ACHIEVEMENT, I believe I have compiled the most extensive, the most accurate compendium of ring performances yet put together.

If exhaustive research, if access to the greatest number of records yet placed at the disposal of any writer on boxing, if the most careful editing, can produce the ideal work, this book is exactly that.

Those words were written by the late Nat Fleischer in the foreword of the very first Ring Record Book, back in 1941. And lo these 39 editions later, we still subscribe to the same guiding principles. More so, if possible.

For The Ring Record Book is more than just a book; it is a legend—the legend of one man, Nat Fleischer, and of a sport, boxing. And it was his dedication to the sport that made The Ring Record Book successful back in 1941 and continue to be successful for the next 38 editions.

It is that very same dedication to "exhaustive research" and "careful editing" that Nat Fleischer first enunciated in the 1941 Edition that we have brought to this, the 40th Edition.

In this, the most comprehensive Record Book yet published, we have included more new data and new records than can be found in any of those annuals which came out between 1941 and 1979: An all-new "Roll Call of Champions"; a complete historical record of the Olympics; a championship section of all claimants, international or fractional; an alphabetized delisting of the members of boxing's most prestigious institution, The Boxing Hall of Fame; and, last, but hardly least, more current fighters' records—both domestic and foreign—than have ever been included before.

Believing that the records of current fighters form the most important portion of this Record Book—as they have in every edition since 1941—we have made a substantial investment in computerizing them. This investment to boxing and its future will pay dividends to you, the reader, and to the boxing community as a whole on a year-to-year basis, inasmuch as they can now be more easily updated and corrected for each and every future edition of The Ring Record Book.

But the mere inclusion of more records is only half the story of the "all-new" Ring Record Book. The other half is more accuracy. Just as Nat Fleischer originally dedicated himself to "careful editing," so, too, have we, the staff of Ring Magazine, dedicated ourselves to making the 1980 Edition as error-free as is humanly possible. Not only have we spend thousands of manhours reading and re- reading galleys, painstakingly fine toothcombing for errors of commission as well as those of omission, but we have also had the benefit of hundreds of "Contributing Editors" who have given us their time and effort in finding new additions and deletions—all substantiated by notarized statements or newspaper clippings—to insure that the 1980 Ring Record Book can truly be called "The Bible of Boxing."

To those of you who have waited patiently for your 1980 Ring Record Book, we hope that your patience has been more than amply rewarded. And to those who have looked forward to the 1980 Ring Record Book in the hopes that it would be better and worthy of that heretofore pretentious appellation "The Bible of Boxing", we trust that you will find that your anticipation has been equally rewarded.

Not only do we pledge to maintain the original concept of Nat Fleischer—carried on ably by his successor in name and title, Nat Loubet—but to improve upon it. In this we need your help and cooperation. For, as Robert Frost wrote: ". . . I have promises to keep/ and miles to go before I sleep."
